

Conejo Community Center & Park Assessment Project

Over a multi-year period, CRPD staff received input from various public and stakeholder meetings as well as an online survey and, as a result, developed and established guiding priorities for the community's future vision of Conejo Community Center and Park:

Sense of Place is the most significantly cherished component of the current property. The Center and Park is an extension of the residents' homes and an integral part of the neighborhood.

Topography and Natural Features will be preserved and remain intact, while further highlighting the natural value provided to the site. The development will be minimized to alter existing conditions, though major built features will complement the property to balance the developed site and natural terrain.

Programming abilities will be expanded with the additional interior and exterior spaces for current and future opportunities. Enhancements will be made for the year-round programs and events.

Replace Center Building while keeping its character and scale that complements the neighborhood. The building will be brought up to today's construction standards and will be given improvements.

Design development was completed in June 2021, and the Final Mitigated Negative Declaration (MND) was approved by the CRPD Board of Directors on June 17, 2021. The next phase will be completing construction documents and permits, which will take place through Spring 2022.
